NEW ADVERTISEMENTS THIS DAY

Firemen.
Auction—Lumley Franklin.

The British Columbian.

SATURDAY, MAY 29, 1899.

Population, Population.

It is matter of surprise that the general public of British Columbia manifest so little interest in the subject which forms the heading of this article, seeing it underlies the most vital interests of the Colony, and is inseparably connected with the permanent wellbeing of every man, woman and child in it. The Colony is large. But what of that? It's empty! The climate is one of the most genial in the world. But of what avail is a salubrious atmosphere with no human lungs to inhale it? The soil is fertile and easily cultivated. But what matters that without—"a bold peasantry—a country's pride"? The mountains are of silver, copper, and iron. But without capital and muscle to quarry and smelt, they might as well be of granite. The waters of our rivers and brooks flow over beds of pebbled gold; yet there are none to put forth the hand and "gather up the stones." Beneath lie boundless beds of coal. But no man hath yet descended into the bowels of the earth to bring it up. The waters swarm with fish of every family, from the whale down to the sardine, affording wholesome food for millions; but there is none to dispute the spoil with the bottle-nosed whale. On our sea board swarm the valuable fur seals. But they disport themselves with as much impunity as if their value were still unknown. This is no mere wordy flight of the imagination. It is all simple, solid truth. Why is it so? The answer is simple and obvious. Because the Colony is unpopulated. Eight thousand white people, men, women and children, all told, scattered over a territory of a quarter of a million of square miles! But let us go back to first principles. How is it that a country possessing so many attractions—offering so many and so great advantages, has only eight thousand of a white population, at the end of the first decade in its history? How is it? There must be a cause. In the first place, the policy of the Government has been much at fault. Many thousands rushed into the country in 1858. These were regarded in the light of unwelcome intruders, and the Executive actually devoted its attention to devising means to keep population away! And from that day to the present, what encouragement has been given, what inducement held out to the many thousands who have from time to time found their way into the country, to remain with us? The Government is without any policy with regard to settling up the lands. The Lands Department, although, doubtless, formidable enough in so far as brick and mortar, red-tape and tapesters are concerned, might almost as well be located within the fortress of Gibraltar, so far as affording information and facilitating settlement are concerned. The few who have, by dint of perseverance, settled, have had to fight their way every inch! Is it surprising, then, that so few have remained of all those who have visited our shores? But this is not the only cause of the paucity of population. No effort has been made to bring population. Worse still, no attempt has been made to circulate information respecting this Colony, in those great centres of population from which it might reasonably be hoped to draw a supply. Of what possible avail can the advantages offered by this Colony be, if these advantages are kept a profound secret? What right has the most remote of the British Colonies to expect immigration without even asking for it, to say nothing of assisting it? We implore both Government and people to pause and reflect upon this subject, in order that they may realize the utter insanity of the past, and act with a little more common sense in the future.

Liquid glue, superior to mullage, may be made by dissolving glue in an equal quantity of strong hot vinegar, adding a fourth of alcohol and a little alum. This will keep any length of time when placed in closed bottles, and will glue together horn, wood, and mother of pearl.

Canadian Mail Summary.

Dates to 30th April.

Navigation of the St. Lawrence had partially commenced; but some of the lakes were still ice-bound, rendering connections incomplete. The water had subsided at Montreal, and the streets in Grindstone were perfectly dry. A man named John Logan, of Kingston, slipped, while getting out of Bonaventure station, Montreal, and was crushed to death. Lord Cecil had two services in the Mechanics' Hall, Montreal, on the 26th. That immense Hall was crowded each time. Lord Cecil's preaching continues to attract great attention, and his appeals are described by the press as earnest and eminently practical and impressive. Not only do the common people hear him gladly, but his audiences are frequently highly fashionable. On the 26th a despatch from the Secretary of State for the Colonies, relative to the disallowed bill of last session to reduce the salary of the Governor-General, was laid on the table of the House of Commons. It points out that the salary of the Governor-General was £10,000, and that the reduction proposed by the bill would make the Dominion rank third class. Reference is made to the importance of the Dominion, and the duties to be performed, requiring men of first class attainments. The general feeling in Canada appears to be one of satisfaction at the disallowance of the bill. The first and second reports of the Civil Service Commission were presented to Parliament. They cover 100 pages of printed matter. The Globe pronounces the Commission a failure, and says if the Senate and Commons, which have shown themselves capable of retrenching in the expenses of Parliament, expect reform in the Departments they must take that matter in hand also. There was a match between the iron clippers Gleniffer, Abena, Lake Superior, Glenberrie, and the wooden clipper Anglesca. All started on the 25th March from Glasgow and Liverpool, within an hour of each other. The Gleniffer was the first to reach Quebec from Glasgow, and the Anglesca was the first from Liverpool. Young Chaloner, whose trial for shooting Rensign Whittaker had not come off at that time, was represented as being in good spirits, practising on a velocipede belonging to one of the goal guardians. The Government organs of Nova Scotia give no sign of what policy will be adopted in view of Mr. Howe's election. In reply to a question, Sir John A. McDonald stated in the House of Commons that it was the intention of Government to abolish postage on newspapers and to reduce postage on letters to two cents. Mr. Marchand, the member of the Legislature of Quebec, for St. Johns, who took so lively an interest in the return of the French Canadians from the United States last Session, is organizing, with much success, a Colonization Society, to carry out his object. It appears that there is a very general wish on the part of the French Canadians who emigrated to the Western States to return to Canada. Several persons in Golderich contemplate emigrating to the Red River country as soon as it is open to settlement, and it is confidently anticipated that the tide of emigration will be diverted from the Western States to that Territory.

Neutrality and Cuba.

We clip the following very candid article from the San Francisco Bulletin:

We are saving our consistency by a mere technicality. If reports are true, mentions of war, men, and even armed ships, have left American ports within a few weeks to succor the revolution in Cuba, although legal proof of this may not exist. We have not acknowledged the rebels as belligerents, it is true, but we have gone to the other extreme, and ignored the fact that there is any revolution at all. And yet, this revolution is one of the most palpable facts of the times. A large part of the inhabitants of Cuba, are in arms against what is held to be the lawful constituted government. Now, if England had issued no proclamation of neutrality, and had wholly ignored the late rebellion so far as official action was concerned, her citizens in the meantime selling to the rebels armed ships and munitions of war, it would not have mitigated the offence much in our eyes to hear the excuse, "The English Government knows nothing of these matters; it doesn't even know that there is rebellion. Our citizens sell ships, guns, powder, etc. to American citizens, because there is no law to prohibit such sales." Are we to-day doing the very thing which forms the gravamen of the charge brought against England? Are we assisting rebels to overthrow the Government of Spain in Cuba? It is quite possible that it ought to be overthrown. And so England might have reasoned about what ought to be done in behalf of the Confederacy. Probably a majority of the people of the United States would like to see the Cubans achieve their independence. Our sympathies are on that side. At one time, a majority of the English people would have been glad to see the Southern Confederacy succeed. To make the success more certain, England did under color of a neutrality proclamation, what we are doing without any proclamation. It is convenient for the Government not to know that there is a belligerent party in Cuba, which is possibly on the eve of success. And it so happens that ships depart, men enlist, munitions are collected; and while every officer of the Government knows what is going on, it is convenient for the Government not to know anything officially about the matter.

Mexico has taken different ground. She has acknowledged the revolutionary party as belligerents and has not taken any notice of our proclamation of neutrality. She hates Spanish dominion, and is not slow in letting it be known that she will permit the rebels to have a base for operations in her ports. If Spain were not in the days of her strength, she would make lively times in Mexico, and would set our Government some unpleasant questions.

Now, we are pushing the Alabama claims, and have just made a presentation of them with all the force of statecraft and all the arts of statecraft. The case is a strong one. Are we to weaken the moral force of this claim by inflicting the same wrongs upon another nation that are the grounds of complaint against England? The old maxim that he who acts equitably must do equity, is good as between two nations. We may escape on the technical side that we know nothing officially of any war, rebellion or revolution in Cuba. And yet special instructions have gone from the State Department to our Consul at Havana, which have reference to the exigencies caused by the rebellion. The danger now is that we shall lose a part of our moral power with which the Alabama claim is backed, by our course in Cuban affairs. We cannot help it that the sympathies of the people are on the side of the revolutionists. It may be that they are right and justice on their side. But for the sake of consistency we can refrain from doing the very things which, when done by England towards us, have never ceased to call for outrage. When John Bull goes out it is a serious matter, and we ask for the payment of a round bill of damages, with an acknowledgment that what was wrong. How is it when our bull goes the Spanish way?

Brigham Young having caused his "saints" who trade in Salt Lake City to put up bull's eye signs, with "Holliness to the Lord!" upon them, in order to distinguish them from those of the Gentiles, with whom it is made a crime to do business, it has been discovered by the faithful that bull's eye prices are very large, comparatively, and they give such places the go-by, much to the chagrin of Brigham.

The principal stockholder in the very profitable Independence Barge is a marriageable maiden of 17, who also owns an estate worth over 1,000,000 francs.

George Francis Train sold lately in Omaha, 16 lots for $12,000, and still owns 5000 just like them which are now worth $4,000,000, and are rapidly rising in value.

At Peoria, Illinois, the convention of grape growers sat down to a repast which was washed down with native wine furnished from 225 samples.

Directions for using Kane's Imperial Condensed Soap.—1st. For ordinary washing (from three to four doses) dissolve one-eighth pound of soap in sufficient boiling water to cover well your white clothes. Pour it over the clothes and let them soak thirty minutes, stirring them occasionally. If the water is hard use a little more soap.

2nd. When soaked, wring them out, rub a little soap upon the soiled parts, and put them into the boiler with sufficient water to boil them, having first dissolved one-eighth pound of soap in the water, and boil them ten or fifteen minutes, then wring them well, in warm water and rinse in cold water, blue and hang out to dry.

3rd. Should there be any articles not thoroughly cleaned, rub the soiled places with little soap, and replace them in the boiler and boil a few minutes longer.

4th. For colored or woollen clothes use the same as common soap.

THE GREAT STRUGGLE.—The wild denunciation of Mr. Gladstone at Irish Protestant meetings continues. Bishops, Lords and gentlemen all join in the labour of name calling, and threaten all possible and impossible consequences if the Irish Establishment is meddled with. The London Spectator suggests to those reverend, right reverend, and right honorable scolds whether it might not add dignity to their harangues to read up Cicero a little and pick out such words as Calver, Sc., to throw at the luckless Premier's head. It also thinks that as Bishops are not allowed to swear, at least in public, though an oath or two would seem to be a great relief to them in their present condition, they might "vary the exercises" by pillopping Mr. G. as a "rhomboidal parallelopiped" or a "Gnostic" or an "ichneumon." The fact, adds the Spectator, "that the question at issue is religious, that, in their own obscure minds, it is the Ark which the speakers defend, seems to deprive them alike of charity, self-control and sense; till they argue for the Church with blasphemies, fight the battle of Christ with calumnies, and defend the Holy of Holies from the spoiler, with showers of shameful curses."

TELEGRAPHIC COMMUNICATION WITH BURRARD INLET.—It will be seen by our despatch in another column, that telegraphic communication with Burrard Inlet is complete, the cable across the Inlet to Moody & Co.'s Mills having been successfully laid yesterday. The polls were planted, and the wire stretched between New Westminster and the Inlet several weeks ago, and the delay in completing the connection was entirely owing to extreme pressure of business at the mills. For the construction of this additional branch of our telegraphic system, the public is largely indebted to the enterprising firm to whose mills it runs. The undertaking may be accepted as evidence of the growing importance of Burrard Inlet, and will, doubtless, have a tendency to make that port better known and appreciated abroad, while it cannot fail to facilitate commercial intercourse with San Francisco. Success to Burrard Inlet and its enterprising people!

THE DOMINION FISHERIES.—In the Canadian House of Commons, on the 25th ult., Mr. Coffin enquired whether it was the intention of Government to place an armed force on the coast of the Dominion to protect American fishermen from fishing in our waters during the coming season; if not, what course did they intend to pursue? Sir John A. Macdonald said he understood the Admiral in command had a considerable force on the ground for protecting the British fisheries. But meanwhile he desired the honorable member to allow his question to stand. From this it would appear that it is not the intention of the Canadian Government to permit the Americans to fish any more in Canadian waters.

OUR COURTS OF JUSTICE.—Certain proceedings which took place in the Supreme Court yesterday, formed the subject of pretty severe criticism on the streets. We trust the Indian John will not get off on any false issue. People are naturally puzzled to understand what possible bearing the condition in which the other dead bodies were found can have upon the question of fact as to whether or not he murdered the woman, as given in evidence; or what possible light Dr. Comrie's evidence could throw upon it.

MARVELOUS! INCREIBLE!!—We, at the antipodes, tell our readers this morning what the London Times said yesterday! What was said in the Commons last night!! Only think of it. What transpires in England is known in British Columbia, at Cariboo, for the matter of that, on the same day! We hope the wire hasn't fibbed as to dates.

NEUTRALITY.—We publish this morning a able and candid article from the San Francisco Bulletin, upon the attitude of the United States in reference to the Cuban revolution, as compared with that of Great Britain about the civil war in America. The article does credit to the San Francisco Press.

FOR NEW WESTMINSTER.—The str. Enterprize, Capt. Swanson, sailed for New Westminster at 10 o'clock yesterday morning, taking freight and passengers, and Barnard's Express. She is expected back to-day, with a Cariboo Express and mails.

ITEM.—Why do the people of British Columbia pay half a million a-year in support of a Civil List? What is the Government for? What does the Government of British Columbia do for the Colony?

FOR SHANGHAI.—The ship Macedon, Capt. Summerfield, arrived from Burrard Inlet yesterday, in tow of the steamer Isabel. She is loaded with lumber, and will sail for Shanghai, via San Francisco.

CONNECTION.—We were misinformed as to the torch-light procession and serenade in honor of Mr. Young taking place last night. It is to come off to-night.

TO YOUR TENTS ON FIREMEN!—Don your shirts and belts for a grand torch-light procession to-night.

PURSEALS.—The Captain of the ship Atlanta informed us that, in coming in a few days ago, he saw thousands of fur seals, off Cape Flattery. It is surprising that an animal of such great commercial value should not have attracted more attention in our waters.

KANE'S IMPERIAL CONDENSED SOAP is really and honestly all that it claims to be. It is the friend of the house-keeper, and the arch enemy of dirt. To try it once is to use it ever.

SUPREME COURT.—The Court of Assize will meet to-day, at 11 o'clock, a.m. The adjourned case of the Queen vs. Anderson, will be the first to be taken up, and the next will be the Queen vs. White.

COUNSEL FOR THE INDIANS.—We are pleased to find, that the jury on the Burrard Sound case took occasion yesterday to remind the Court of its duty in providing the Indian prisoner with Counsel.

CORRECTION.—In noticing the sailing of the barque Saga, in our last issue, we mentioned that she took her cargo of lumber from Moody & Co.'s Mills, whereas she loaded at Stamp's Mill.

Court of Assize.

Before Chief Justice Neidham.

May 28th, 1869.

The Queen vs. Anaytchist.—This case was resumed yesterday. An Indian witness named Hycialta, was called, but nothing satisfactory could be obtained from him, further than a statement that the prisoner had boasted, at a feast, of having killed the white woman.

Mr. Hebbard, one of the jury, stated to his Lordship, the Judge, that some of the jury did not think it altogether right to allow Capt. Christensen to act as interpreter in the case, as he was the principal person who led to the discovery and investigation of the wreck and loss of life. Mr. Hebbard also said that it was the opinion of the jury that the prisoner should have Counsel.

His Lordship replied that it was not properly within the province of a jury to make such suggestions. He would, however, assign Counsel to the prisoner; but as to the objection to the interpreter, he thought no prejudice would accrue to the prisoner through using the man they had.

Mr. Woods, by request of his Lordship, consented to act as Counsel for the prisoner.

Capt. Christensen was sworn, and testified to the following effect: That about the 7th of February last he went to the west coast on a trading voyage, and in passing point Estaban, saw a barque ashore. Her main and mizzen masts were gone, her foremast and bowsprit were standing. He passed on and went to Kyooka, traded there and returned, about the 28th of February, to the village of Hesquiat, near the wreck. He went to the spot where the ship was ashore, and found the skeleton of a woman. In a conversation with John (the prisoner) he denied even having seen any bodies on the shore, and when pressed to tell, said he did not know anything about it, nor did he care.

To Mr. Woods. I know John, the prisoner. I believe he is not friendly with the chief, there is opposition between them. John is a small chief with a few. I have heard that he was once a slave; some of the Indians call him "no good." On the last of March I went from Victoria to the wreck, the second time. Found five dead bodies on the shore, two mere skeletons, two others partially decomposed, and one not much decomposed. The skin was whole on the flesh. With the help of some of the Indians, I buried the bodies.

His Lordship here questioned the witness very closely in regard to the position and appearance of the dead bodies, but nothing was elicited further than has already been given to the public. The witness could not tell from the appearance of the headless bodies whether the heads had been torn off by the action of the water, or cut off with an instrument.

His Lordship expressed a great deal of dissatisfaction at the non-appearance, as a witness, of Dr. Comrie, who had made a post-mortem examination at the time of the Sparrowhawk's visit to the scene of the wreck, on the 3rd inst.

The Attorney General, in reply, stated that Dr. Comrie had been subpoenaed, but that he had gone North in the Sparrowhawk.

His Lordship caused the service of the summons to be proven, and said he would declare Dr. Comrie under contempt of Court. His Lordship further stated, that at present he would proceed no further with the case; but would adjourn it until the last of the causes were tried.

The jury were then put in charge of the Sheriff, and the case adjourned.

Queen vs. Anderson.—The prisoner was indicted on a charge of misdemeanor in inciting seamen to desert.

The Attorney General appeared on behalf of the Crown, and Mr. McCreight, instructed by Mr. Bishop, for the prisoner.

The Counsel for the defense demurred to the indictment on the ground that the offense was punishable (if committed) in a summary manner before a Magistrate, and not by indictment. The offense was not a common law offense but one created by Statute, which defines the penalty, which is ten pounds summary conviction, before a Magistrate.

The Attorney General contended that the offense, although not specifically stated as a common law offense, was one of so grave a character, being dangerous to the peace and well-being of society, that no mere act of Assembly should place it beyond the rule of common law procedure. A great many authorities were quoted pro and con, by the learned Counsel on both sides.

His Lordship thought there were some doubts in the case: he could not see what penalty could be applied in case of a trial and conviction before a jury, as the common law did not provide for any penalty in the case. He would, therefore, adjourn the case until Saturday morning, at 11 o'clock, when he would give his decision in the matter.

The jury in the Barclay Sound murder case, being in charge of the Sheriff, were asked by his Lordship if they could decide upon a verdict without the evidence of Dr. Comrie. The jury retired, and after a short consultation returned and stated that they could not well decide upon a verdict without the evidence of Dr. Comrie. His Lordship then told the jury that they might consider themselves at liberty, and he would rely upon their honor not to speak to any person in regard to the matter of the trial, nor discuss in any way the matter amongst themselves.

In the case of the Queen vs. Lyons, Mr. Robertson, instructed by Mr. Bishop and Mr. Courtney, gave notice to the Court that he demurred to the indictment of the prisoner, soner.

The Court adjourned until to-day at eleven o'clock, a.m.
